

*2005 South Texas Counseling Association Molly Gerold Human Rights Award
Presented to the Drum Cafe May 12, 2005*

The South Texas Counseling Association Human Rights award is presented to an individual in recognition for his/her contributions in one or more areas of human rights.

Our 2005 Molly Gerold Human Rights Award winner incorporates one of South Africa's oldest traditions, "Drumming." The effect of drumming is a synchronization of energy, creating a unity and a common purpose. Their existential approach to counseling suggests that learning is facilitated if the client can experience the learning in the here and now, followed by the assistance in processing the experience.

Through the use of music and rhythm provided by the Drum Café, an interactive experience transforms a group into a team, creating its own music. Together the participants are challenged to explore the process of growth that occurs from the genuine encounter of a relationship.

This powerful mission has traveled in 16 countries and has performed at over 2,500 events. Additionally, their story was featured on CNN News. Their belief is, "You have to be aware of your neighbor, and if you get lost, the group can carry you until you find your place again. It takes many beats to make a rhythm of drumming and many dreams to make a vision." Please join me in congratulating our 2005 STCA Molly Gerold Human Rights Award recipient, The Drum Café.
